

ANNOTATED WORKS CITED

Entries are in alphabetical order. They aren't numbered or bulleted.

Only the first line of the entry comes out to the margin.

Other lines in the entry are indented.

Double

Achebe, Chinua. Things Fall Apart. Anchor Books, 1994. This is the novel that we have been reading in English class. I found a quote in the novel that shows the girl's demeanor as she served the meal. It also showed how the men from her suitor's family evaluated her as she served the meal.	MLA citation Annotation Sentence 1— Format of the source Sentence 2— Why this source is useful
"Before Colonialism." Igbo Weddings, iboweddings.weebly.com/before-colonialism.html. This source is from a website. This source explains what happens before the Igbo wedding. It describes the visit by the suitor's family to the girl's family, the negotiation of a bride price for the girl, and the meal the meal that is served during the negotiation.	MLA citation Annotation
"The Igbo Traditional Marriage Ceremony: Stages and Custom (Grooms' Guide)." Nigerian Weddings, 4 Nov. 2014, naijaglamwedding.com/igbo-traditional-marriage-stages?. This source is from a website. It describes the parts of an Igbo wedding ceremony. I'll use the information on what happens during the actual wedding in my presentation.	MLA citation Annotation
"Marriage Customs – Things Fall Apart P3." Google Sites, sites.google.com/a/rfschools.com/things-fall-apart-pc/marriage-customs. This source is from a website. It compares a pre-colonial Igbo ceremony with a post-colonial ceremony. It explains the 3 parts of a marriage (e.g., bride price ceremony called Ikwu Aka, the big meal called a Uri, and the questioning of the bride's virtue called Isa-ifi). I will use the information concerning the food that was served (e.g., goats, vegetable soup, yam foofoo).	MLA citation Annotation

--	--